

1 Read Angie's journal entries. Complete the sentences. Use the phrases from the box.

been more careful done it again paid attention to the time

1. I knew how to do all the Maths problems in last night's homework but I didn't look over my answers and made a lot of silly mistakes. My sister says that I should have . . .

2. Today we wrote an essay in class about our favourite place. I spent so long deciding between two places that I only wrote one sentence before the time was up! I should have . . .

3. My little brother grabbed my book review off my desk. He drew on it with a purple crayon. You could still read the review but my dad told me that I should have . . .

2 Circle the correct sentences or questions.

- | | |
|---|--|
| 1. a. They have finished their homework yesterday. 2. a. She has already wrote her speech. 3. a. Has he finished his essay? 4. a. Have you ever finished a project late? 5. a. He hasn't finished the project yesterday. | b. They finished their homework yesterday. b. She has already written her speech. b. Is he finished his essay? b. Did you already finish a project late? b. He didn't finish the project yesterday. |
|---|--|

3 Read the short paragraph. Then answer the questions. Use complete sentences with already and yet.

Jean-Paul has already done his Maths and Science homework but he hasn't started his History project yet. It's due tomorrow! Tammy's got a Spanish test in the morning. She revised for it all afternoon and now she's got to write a book review for tomorrow's English lesson. Fortunately, she has already handed in her History project.

Example: Has Jean-Paul done his Science homework yet?

Yes, he has already done it.

1. Has Tammy written her book review yet?

2. Has Jean-Paul started his History project yet?

3. Has Tammy handed in her History project yet?

4. Has Tammy revised for her Spanish test yet?

4 Write some really bad excuses for why you haven't done the activity in brackets. Use your imagination.

1. (do your homework)

2. (start your book review)

3. (finish your Science project)

