

Who is it?

Aims

Practice asking and answering questions with be.

Language focus

Grammar

Plural subject pronouns; questions with be

Set-up

Pair work

Lesson link

For use after Unit 2, Lesson A

Time

15 minutes

Preparation

Duplicate one copy of the worksheet for each pair.

4. Have students continue playing the guessing game in pairs. Tell them to take turns thinking of a person and guessing.
5. As students are working, walk around to monitor the activity and help as needed. Make note of any errors or problems to review later. End the activity promptly after 15 minutes.

Procedure

1. Put students in pairs and distribute worksheets. Each pair receives one worksheet. Give students some time to read the information on the sheet. Answer any questions about the pronunciation of names or nicknames, or about the location of cities mentioned on the sheet.
2. Tell students that the people on the worksheet have many things in common. To show this, ask questions about the people on the sheet. For example: Is David Lopez Mexican? (Yes.) How many people on the worksheet are Mexican? (Five.)
3. Model the activity. Tell students you are thinking of a person on the worksheet. Have them ask you yes / no questions to guess who it is. For example, for Carlos Gomez: Is the person a man? (Yes.) Is he from Mexico? (Yes.) Is he a singer? (No.) Is he an artist? (Yes.) Is he Carlos Gomez? (Yes.)

Who is it?

David Lopez

- from Mexico City
- singer
- student

Andy and Oscar Jones

- American
- from New York
- musicians

Bruna Costa

- Brazilian
- from Rio de Janeiro
- singer

Rosemary Kim

- nickname: Rosie
- from Toronto, Canada
- student

Michael Lee

- student
- Canadian
- nickname: Mike

Hong Yang

- Chinese
- artist
- nickname: Rosie

Juliana Melo

- artist
- Brazilian
- from São Paulo

Michael Lewis

- from York, Britain
- nickname: Mike
- student

Alejandro and Isabela Martinez

- from Mexico
- students
- nicknames: Alex and Bella

Leonardo da Silva

- from São Paulo, Brazil
- student
- nickname: Leo

Carlos and Marta Gomez

- Mexican
- from Cancún
- artists

Lindsay Black

- American
- from New York
- student